Golden Rings Middle Schools' Health Science Magnet Program

Imagine learning about the health science magnet program and how it works. There is a process to get into the GRMS magnet program. This program is very educational.

You can learn many things in the health science magnet program. Mrs. Nunez said, "The whole program is stronger in health and science." According to Mr. hooks, a 7th grade science teacher, "It allows kids to be exposed to a variety of experiences in the health science field including anatomy, research, technology, and more. They are laying the foundation to be prepared for high school, college, and technical schools." According to Ms. Pagarigan, there was a lung cancer awareness program starting on November 20, 2019. There was a blood drive. It was on November 22, 2019. It helps with language arts, world cultures and math. They teach you CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation).

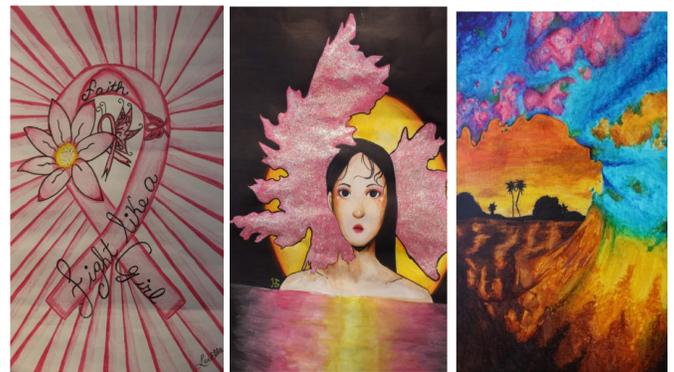

There are several steps to get into the program. First, you can get elected to be in the magnet program. According to Mrs. Parsons, "Some students could apply to get into the program." According to the Magnet Program Flyer, you get elected by recommendation from a Health Science Teacher. Then in the spring you are notified of your admission status.

When you are in the program you do many things. It will make you more knowledgeable about health science programs. Students in the program will most likely be in the medical field.

For example, they have a lot of guests like speakers from John Hopkins University.

Art for a cause saves lives!

These photos of student's artwork by Mr. Cook

So, I want to tell you about the Art for a Cause show. People are saying why? Why art for a cause? Why did Golden Ring Middle choose art for a cause? Read to find out!

So, let's start this off with something interesting. This show raised money for women's cancer awareness in order to save lives!! It was a great success!! Some people may say, "Why art for a cause?" Some people don't like art. They may like dance instead. To clarify, people who say they don't like art may want dance, sports and other interesting activities. They want interesting stuff and say, 'art is boring', so I would like something "different." Ms. Gibson's response to this is, "Well I like art. I grew up on art and I love art. Art expresses, AVID kids can feel free to paint and get emotions out and kids can do what they want." She became an art teacher by following her dream. Her mom was an artist and took her to many art shows at her college. She loved art so MUCH! Ms. Hamond says, "Art expresses feeling through art and hands."
